The Aging & Disability Resource Center of Northwest Wisconsin is committed to understanding, respecting, and empowering those affected by Alzheimer's disease and related dementia by providing support and resources.

What is Dementia?

Dementia is not a specific disease, rather an umbrella term that describes a wide range of symptoms associated with a decline in memory or other thinking skills severe enough to reduce a person's ability to perform everyday activities. There are many conditions that can cause dementia. Alzheimer's disease is the most common form of dementia accounting for 60 to 80 percent of cases.

Signs and Symptoms

- Memory loss that disrupts daily life
- Challenges in planning or solving problems
- Difficulty completing familiar tasks at home, work or at leisure
- Confusion with time or place
- Trouble understanding visual images and spatial relationships
- New problems with words in speaking and writing
- Misplacing things and losing the ability to retrace steps
- Decreased or poor judgment
- Withdrawal from work or social activities
- Changes in mood and personality

Care Planning

Create a care plan for emergencies and if a time comes when you are temporarily or permanently unable to care for your loved one. Think about who will care for your loved one when you can't? What medical conditions does your loved one have and what medications are they on? Who is their primary care provider? What type of insurance do they have? What do you do to help your loved one and what types of activities do they like? A care plan can provide support to the caregiver and can act as a Plan B that will allow someone to step in, as seamlessly as possible, to care for your loved one when you cannot.

To learn more about care plans and get a fillable care plan document visit:

<https://www.cdc.gov/aging/publications/features/caregivers-month.html>

For more information on planning for emergencies visit: <https://www.alz.org/help-support/caregiving/safety/in-a-disaster>

A care plan for someone with dementia may also include:

- A list of things/activities he or she likes
- Things that calm them
- Location of photo albums

- Strategies that you've used successfully to help with common behaviors
- What they are usually trying to communicate with certain behaviors
- Their daily routine

Caregiver Programs

Alzheimer's Family Caregiver Support

Program (AFCSP): Funds for AFCSP are made available in each county to assist individuals to purchase services and goods related to caring for someone with Alzheimer's disease or related dementia. Eligibility includes a diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease or related dementia and an annual income of $48,000 or less. Contact the Aging & Disability Resource Center, 877-485-2372

National Family Caregiver Support Program (NFCSP): Limited funds available to provide short-term and temporary respite breaks for the family caregiver and supplemental services such as adaptive equipment, home medical supplies, etc.

For more information on caregiver classes and programs, contact the Aging & Disability Resource Center, 877-485-2372

Crisis

Crisis situations can lead to unnecessary hospital admissions or institutionalization. Immediate intervention, such as having a plan in place, may help avoid admission, while stabilizing measures can help prevent future crisis. The Aging & Disability Resource Center can help address your current situation and make plans for the future to prevent a crisis. Individuals with dementia in crisis and their family caregivers needing emergency help can contact:

- Northwest Connections: 888-552-6642
- Burnett County Mental Health Crisis Line: 888-636-6655
- Emergency Services: 9-1-1
- Alzheimer's Association Helpline: 800-272-3900

Home Care

Long term care services provided in the home can include medical and non-medical services—home health care, supportive home care and personal care. Home health care (medical) includes skilled nursing care and therapy services. These services are often covered by Medicare on a short term basis. Personal care includes “hands-on” services (but not skilled services) including bathing, grooming and hygiene.

Supportive home care includes “hands-off” services like cleaning, laundry, cooking and meal preparation. Medicare does not pay for supportive home care or personal care (unless it is provided in conjunction with skilled services) and Medical Assistance will sometimes pay for personal care but will not pay for supportive home care or respite care. Below is a list of agencies that provide personal, supportive and respite home care—services that are often a huge help when caring for someone with dementia. For a complete list of medical in home services, costs and other long term care options contact the ADRC at 877-485-2372.

Hospice and Palliative Care Services

Hospice care focuses on comfort and dignity at the end of life; it involves care and support services that can be of great benefit to people in the final stages of Alzheimer's and other dementias and their families. The primary purpose of hospice care is to manage pain and other symptoms during the last six months of life where treatments focus on comfort rather than curing the underlying disease. Hospice is usually covered by Medicare, Medicaid and other private insurances.

Palliative Care is available at any stage or age of a life-limiting illness. A patient does not need to have a terminal prognosis of six months or less to qualify, nor is it required that they stop seeking curative treatment.

Palliative Care uses a team approach to improve quality of life by providing pain and symptom (including behaviors in a person living with dementia) management, facilitating communication, assisting with decision making and coordinating care and services available to support the patient within his or her community. Not typically covered by Medicare but sometimes covered by private insurance plans. Contact the agency to inquire about cost and payment options for palliative care services.

Both palliative care and hospice care services can be provided in the home or in a facility. For a list of hospice and palliative care agencies contact the ADRC at 877-485-2372.

Power of Attorney

What is a Power of Attorney for Health Care (POA-HC)?

A document that authorizes another person (called the “agent”, for example a daughter) to make health care decisions for the person executing the document (called the “principal,” for example a mother), consistent with the terms of the document and based on the wishes of the principal. It can include a statement of wishes regarding future care. It is essential that principals talk to their agents about their wishes. POA-HC forms are available at the Aging & Disability Resource Center or online at:

Additional information and the forms can also be found at www.gwaar.org or 1-855-409-9410.

How does my POA-HC become effective or activated?

For a POA-HC to become activated, the principal must be determined “incapacitated.” Incapacity is determined by two doctors or one doctor and a licensed psychologist and means an individual is “unable to receive and evaluate information effectively or to communicate decisions to such an extent that the individual lacks the capacity to manage his or her health care decisions.” The certification of incapacity must be attached to the POA-HC document. Section 155.01 (8) of Wisconsin Statutes.

If an individual remains able to make their own health care decisions, the agent’s authority to make health care decisions is not activated.

What is a Power of Attorney for Finance (POA-F)?

Power of Attorney for Finances is a document that you (the “principal”) complete and sign, naming another individual (the “agent”) to manage your finances. You determine the money you want the agent to have authority over, as well as the authority you want the agent to have. This document does not give your agent the power to make medical, long-term care or other health care decisions for you.

The agent’s authority takes effect immediately after you execute the document unless you expressly indicate otherwise. You retain the legal right to handle all of your finances as long as you are willing and able. Essentially, you and/or your agent have authority to make decisions about your finances.

If you do not complete a POA-F but later become incapacitated, there may not be anyone with legal authority to make necessary decisions and complete the necessary transactions for you (paying bills, selling real estate, closing bank accounts, filing tax returns, etc.).

Information and forms are available at www.gwaar.org or 1-855-409-9410.

Without a POA-HC or POA-F, it may be necessary for your family or others to ask the court to appoint a Guardian of the Person and Guardian of the Estate. This process can be costly, time-consuming, cumbersome and emotionally draining.

Research and Clinical Trials

Without clinical trials and research there can be no better treatments, no prevention and no cure for Alzheimer's disease. Individuals with dementia, caregivers and healthy volunteers are needed to participate in clinical trials focused on Alzheimer's and other dementias. Individuals interested in participating in research studies or interested in donating their brain (after death) for research purposes, can contact the following organizations.
